Fund Drives

Dear Campaign Coordinator,

Thank you so much for your interest in helping in our fight against hunger by hosting an employee giving campaign. Over the past year, we have seen an increase in need of approximately 30%. Due to this increase in need, there's never been a better time to support the Food Bank of Northeast Georgia through an employee giving campaign.

Employee giving campaigns are an easy creative way to show your support for the community. Use this kit to help you plan fun activities to get your organization involved in hunger relief. In this kit, you will find creative ideas to garnish support of this campaign. Not only will employees have a great time participating in the campaign, but they will feel good about your company's support of the community.

Your role as the coordinator of this campaign is extremely important to the success of the event, but you don't have to do it alone. A representative from The Food Bank of Northeast Georgia is available for you to discuss any questions or concerns at anytime throughout the campaign. Below is a list of some best practices and variables influencing campaign results. Again, should you have any questions or concerns, please do not hesitate to contact Tina Laseter at donations@foodbanknega.org or David Williams at food@foodbanknega.org.

Top Variables Influencing Food Drive

- Did "CEO" personally address participants?
- Did "CEO" attend campaign event?
- Did the organization have a budget for the campaign?
- Did the coordinator contribute to the campaign?
- Did the coordinator feel supported during the campaign?
- Type of planning done for campaign
- Was there a goal set in the beginning?
- Coordinator's impression of the Food Bank.
Were participants encouraged to contribute on more than one occasion?

Best Practices

- Create a Winning Team
- Develop a Plan for Success
- Set a goal
- Incorporate themes, special events, and incentives into your campaign
- Offer opportunities for participants to hear from Food Bank Representative
- Promote and Publicize your campaign
- Educate your participants about the Food Bank & ask them to give
- Thank everyone
- Wrap Up results

For more than 15 years, the Food Bank of Northeast Georgia and its supporters have provided millions of meals for hungry northeast Georgians. An effort like an employee giving campaign is one way to ensure there is food on the table for a neighbor in need. With $1 providing 4 meals, a donation in any amount goes a long way to provide food for those struggling with hunger in our community.

Again, thank you for your support. We look forward to working with you.

Sincerely,

Tina Laseter

Ideas for a Successful Campaign

Promotion

Promotion is the key to any successful campaign. Start building awareness for your event a few weeks in advance. Here are some key strategies to use when promoting the event:

- ✦ Hang posters around the office
- ✦ Send out formal letter from “CEO” inviting everyone to participate
- ✦ Inform group of progress using emails and eblasts
- ✦ Make daily announcements – especially if you have an intercom system
- ✦ Send out teasers to group giving them a hint of the theme, activity, or event for the campaign
- ✦ Write an article about the campaign and prominently place in the newsletter
- ✦ Print flyers and distribute to group halfway through campaign
- ✦ Using address labels create stickers to remind group of campaign kick off
- ✦ Give out candy such as life savers, fireballs, extra gum, now & later
 - Life savers – you just might save someone's life with your gift
 - Fireballs – get fired up about the campaign
 - Extra Gum – thanks for going the extra mile
 - Now & Later – what you do now will make a difference later
 - If applicable use social media such as Facebook and Twitter to promote campaign

Themes

Giving your campaign an overall theme can make the campaign lively and fun. Themes can also help to focus the events you have planned and can tie the entire campaign together. Be creative. Some examples include:

- ✦ Movie Theme: Mission Impossible
- ✦ Music Theme: “Ain’t No Mountain High Enough”
- ✦ Holiday Theme: Wrap it Up for the Food Bank
- ✦ Company Theme: Weight Watchers – “Drop Unwanted Pounds Here”
- ✦ Sports Themes: Step Up to the Plate
- ✦ Hunger Themes: We Can Make a Difference
- ✦ Miscellaneous: Building a Better Community, Giving is an Art

Ideas for a Successful Campaign

Activities

The goal of a successful campaign is to get participants excited about giving back. Making the campaign festive and upbeat is important. The following is a list of activities that will help make the campaign fun:

Competitions: Create competitions between groups (shifts, departments, floors, grades) to see who will collect the most money or goods. Groups compete for prizes or bragging rights.

Challenges: Have management or supervisory staff challenge all staff to contribute to the food drive. To take this a step further, the group that issues the challenge can match the amount brought in by the other group based upon a percentage of those that participate. For example, if 100% of the staff participate and bring in 50 lbs. the management staff will “match” this contribution bring in 50 lbs.

Event\Campaign Combo: Campaigns that are in conjunction with other events are often very successful. Partner your collection with an event using cans or monetary donation as a ticket for full or reduced admission such as school dance or company picnic.

Donation Bags: One of the most successful corporate tactics! Plastic or paper bags are gathered or printed and given especially to employees. They are taken home and filled with food and returned. The bags remind employees of the food drive and make it easy to transport the food.

Make a Meal: Simply encourage participants to collect all of the non perishable items for their favorite meal for an individual or family. A twist to this could be a twist to the “Giving Tree Concept” where items are posted on a wall or bulletin board and participants “pull” the item from the board to donate.

Skip a Meal, “Feed a Friend”: Host an office-wide brown bag lunch day. Ask staff to donate the money that they would have spent on lunch to the campaign. Consider leaving brown bags around the office to advertise the event.

Jeans\Casual Day: Allow individuals to wear jeans or other type of dress (sports team t-shirts) if they meet their campaign goal. Host competitions between groups (dept., floors, grades) to see who collects the most food. Winners get to wear special clothes for a day. You can also sell dress down passes for employees to purchase for the privilege of dressing down. All proceeds to benefit the Food Bank of Northeast Georgia.

Preferred Food Items: Designate an “item of the day” for people to donate each day. Have individuals “guess” how many cans the organizer or supervisor is going to bring the next day. If any individual brings in a greater number of canned goods than the organizer or supervisor reward the individual for their efforts.

Run an “Ad Campaign”: To encourage participation, design a series of ads using food bank or hunger statistics and place these ads around the office or campaign location to remind participants of the need as well as what they can do to help. (Facts can be provided by the Food Bank).

Penny Wars: Find large glass jars and place them in a common area. Have a competition to see what group can get the most points. Pennies are positive points, silver and dollars are negative points to be put in opposing group’s jars. Or see who can fill up their jars with pennies first. All proceeds go to the Food Bank.

Ideas for a Successful Campaign

Make a “Canstruciton”: Use your creative talents to build replicas of building, bridges, pyramids or any other structure using cans. Then donate the entire structure to the Food Bank. You can have contests among groups and award prizes to 1st, 2nd, and 3rd places.

Aspiring Chef: Organize the aspiring chefs in your office to cook a special lunch. Charge your co-workers a suggested donation to eat lunch. Add to this by having individuals vote for the best dish: $1 = 1 vote. All proceeds to benefit the Food Bank.

Host a Raffle\ Provide Incentives: Identify items to be raffled off within your business. Sell raffle tickets for a predetermined time and amount. Items can be donated by local business. Many employees may be willing to donate prizes for raffles or incentives. Raffle items do not have to cost money. You may consider a special parking place, longer lunch breaks, half day Friday, dinner with top executive, job swap for a day. Instead of a raffle, these items may be used as incentives for those that contribute. Other examples of prizes might include movie tickets, movie rentals, or gift certificates.

Goal Achievement: Set a goal at the beginning of the campaign. Identify some zany things that the campaign organizer or other individual can do if the donation goal is met. Some ideas include: giving individuals the chance to vote on what they would like to see that person dressed up as. Anyone who donates the predetermined amount gets to vote. Other ideas include having to wear your least favorite sports team shirt for a day, wear a wig, eat your least favorite food, or anything that may be “silly”.

Hold a Thank You Celebration: To celebrate the success of the campaign, hold an event such as an ice cream social or pizza party to announce the results of the food drive. And congratulate winners of internal competitions. This event encourages employee support year after year.

$1 = 4 MEALS
